Truman Hits At Critics, Publishers

Defends Postal Workers; Wants Higher Mail Rates

WASHINGTON — (AP)—President Truman said today a lot of people "are trying to make capital" by attacking the loyalty of government workers. He called that "a contemptible way to try to get votes."

The president also lashed out at "some of the biggest magazine publishers in the country" for "fighting tooth and toenail to keep their juicy subsidies" on mail rates.

Truman spoke in Constitution Hall before the National Association of Postmasters. It was his second address within two hours. Earlier he had addressed a ceremony in which the Constitution and Declaration of Independence were sealed in new protective cases.

"A Fine Group"

He told his second audience that the members of the postal service are as fine a group of public servants as can be found anywhere.

"It seems to be open season, these days, on government employees. There are a lot of people who are trying to make political capital by slurring the loyalty and efficiency of government employees and trying to bring the public service into disrepute."

"I think that is a contemptible way to try to get votes."

Doesn't Name Critics
Truman did not name these critics by party or name. Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been at the forefront of attacks on the loyalty of some government employees.

In his criticism of some magazine publishers, also unidentified, Truman said the taxpayers are subsidizing publishers and advertisers "to the tune of several hundred million dollars a year" through low rates on second and third class mail.

"That is not right," he said, adding that he hopes congress soon

Dirksen Says 'Me-Tooism' of GOP to End

BELLEVIEW, (AP) — Senator Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), a supporter of Senator Taft for the presidency, told a St. Clair county Republican club rally yesterday that the party would nominate "a real Republican" for the 1952 presidential campaign.

In backing Taft last week, Dirksen questioned whether Gen. Eisenhower actually is a Republican. Dirksen also predicted the forthcoming Republican campaign would "see the end of me-tooism."

He said Republican presidential candidates in the three previous campaigns had lost because of "me too" campaigning. He charged the Democratic party had failed in six years to "make peace a reality" and said it should be known as "the party of the big promise and the big deceit."

Asks Court to Reopen Moretti Hearing

Prosecutor Boyle Hints New Evidence

Grand Jury May Reopen Case of Cop, Slayer of 2

CHICAGO — (AP) — State's Attorney John S. Boyle today asked criminal court permission to reopen, before a grand jury, investigation of the slaying of two youths by a furloughed policeman.

The policeman, Michael Moretti, was given a "no bill" by the August grand jury. The jury heard more than 30 witnesses and then declined to indict Moretti, a policeman detailed to the state's attorney's force.

This action roused such a public clamor that Coroner A. L. Brodie called a jury of experts to an inquest into the slayings. Attendance at last week's sessions of the inquest grew so great that the hearings had to be moved from a circuit court room to the city council chambers.

Special Prosecutor Boyle, whose office is under criticism for its handling of the original presentation to the grand jury, asked that a special prosecutor be named to conduct the new inquiry.

Chief Justice Thomas J. Kluczynski of Criminal court took Boyle's request under advisement. Meanwhile Moretti's attorney, Allan Bloch, told reporters the inquest procedure had aspects which "make you think it is being held in Russia."

Yelling From Gallery
"You have a gallery yelling, and lawyers making accusations, which is reminiscent of a French revolutionary trial," he said. "The coroner's jury should be allowed to make its own decision without

Bartender Was Patient Until It Got 'Rough'

Joseph Kopeck, who as a bartender at the Roundup tavern, 212 First st., usually listens to the complaints of his customers understandingly, didn't care for what three Rock Falls men said Saturday night and had them arrested. Richard Ayres, Curtis Colley and Hubert Colley were fined $10 and costs each by Justice of the Peace Sterling D. Schrock on a complaint by Kopeck that they used profane language and had offered to fight him while at the tavern. The men were arrested by Police-men Camery and Wilson.

Cong. Allen Not Candidate for Governor; Will Seek Reelection

Con. Leo E. Allen, Galena, said today that he wishes to make it unmistakably clear that "He is not and will not be a candidate for the governorship of the state of Illinois in 1952."

Allen, said in a news release from his Washington office, "While I deeply appreciate proffered support of many friends for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois in next spring's primaries, I shall submit my name to the voters of the Sixteenth Congressional district as a candidate for reelection to the House of Representatives of the United States congress."

Great Service

"I have a very strong conviction that, because of my long experience in national legislation, I can be of greater service to my district, state and nation, in congress than in a state office."

Allen further stated, "It plainly appears that the House of Representatives will be Republican after the next election. In that event, I will be chairman of the rules committee, the position I

Youngster Killed in Bike-Truck Accident

JOSEPH PINKOCZI

CORONER ROBERT PRESTON stares down at the crumpled bicycle that Joseph Pinkoczi rode to his death on his 14th birthday Saturday. An inquest jury Sunday decided that the youth met accidental death from head injuries. The accident happened at the Woodrow garage on E. River road just outside the city limits. The youth ran into the bread truck driven by Gilbert DeRoo, 38, Sterling. DeRoo said he was either stopped or nearly stopped at the time of the crash. He was not held. Shown in the background are Sheriff Charles H. Redebaugh and Chief Deputy John Stauffer.

Funeral Rites Tuesday for Victim of Bicycle Tragedy

Joseph Pinkoczi, Jr., 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkoczi, Rt. 3, Dixon, died on his birthday Saturday when his bicycle crashed into a truck on Rt. 2 near the city limits of Dixon.

An inquest jury Sunday decided that death was the result of head injuries. The youth was dead before medical aid arrived after his bicycle plowed into the right front of a bread truck either stopped or moving slowly near the edge of Rt. 2, at 11:15 a. m. The truck was driven by Gilbert DeRoo, 38, of 703 W. Eighth street, Sterling.

Testifying at the inquest Sunday were Mrs. Nellie Lewis, Oregon, an eye witness; DeRoo, the driver; Arthur Ragan, 13, a playmate of the Pinkoczi boy; Barbara Pinkoczi, his sister; Dr. Edward Murphy and Sheriff Charles H. Redebaugh.

Did Not See Boy

The accident happened at the Woodrow garage on East River road just outside the city limits. DeRoo had stopped his bread truck at the garage and was pulling out to the highway at the time of the accident. He testified he was in the act of stopping, or had stopped, when the bicycle hit the right front of the truck. He did not see the cyclist approaching.

The Pinkoczi boy and his companion, Arthur Ragan, were riding north down an alley which passes on the east side of the garage. Pinkoczi's sister was chasing them on foot down the alley.

Watching Car

DeRoo said he was watching an approaching car on Rt. 2 when he heard the crash. Leaping out of the truck he said he found the boy lying in front beside his wrecked bicycle.

Mrs. Lewis was driving east on

Rt. 2 at the time of the accident. She said she saw the truck stop and then saw the driver jump out and run around to the front. After she passed she saw the boy lying on the ground when she looked in her rear view mirror.

Sister Testifies

The Ragan boy and Pinkoczi's sister testified that the two youths were riding down the alley with the girl chasing them when the accident happened.

Dr. Murphy said the youth died of head injuries. Sheriff Redebaugh testified that another truck was parked near the scene which might have obscured the vision of the cyclists riding down the alley.

Also the sheriff told of a large pool of crankcase oil in the alley which might have prevented the boy from stopping his bicycle.

Funeral Tuesday

The youth was born Sept. 15, 1937, and attended Stony Point school. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinkoczi; three sisters, Barbara, Helen and Margaret; a brother, Frank; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Pinkoczi, Chicago, and

Girl Scout Fund Drive Starts Today

The fund raising drive of the Dixon Girl Scouts opened officially this morning with volunteer workers from Dixon civic clubs canvassing the city by blocks.

Co-chairmen Lyle Melvin and James Cleaton are in charge of the drive. Funds raised will be used in local Scouting. The program in Dixon during the past year has included Brownie play day and the father and daughter banquet.

According to Girl Scout spokesmen, "The Girl Scout has high ideals. She has promised as one of the 1,500,000 Girl Scouts in the United States that 'on my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country' and to help other people at all times. She is learning the importance of working with others at home, at school and in her neighborhood. The Girl Scout as well as her community benefits from her experiences."

Hospitalized Man Draws Map, And Sheriff Locates Treasure

OREGON — (Special) — A bed-ridden man drew a buried treasure map here Saturday and as a result authorities unearthed $5,625 in government bonds near his home.

Sheriff James White and Clyde Dougdale, manager of the Oregon hotel, located the bonds owned by Walter Acker, six miles north of Oregon.

Acker, a patient in the Warmolts clinic, wrote Sheriff White a note asking him to locate the treasure. White and Dougdale, Acker's cousin, went to the Acker home. They failed to locate the bonds after a long search.

They returned to the clinic. There the hospitalized Acker drew a map of his property showing the exact location of the bonds.

White and Dougdale returned to the home and by aid of the map located the bonds in a pickle jar.

State Supreme Court Hearing Arguments in Lambersky Case

The appeal of the decision by Judge George Dixon setting aside the indictment of Alex Lambersky by the grand jury is being argued today before the Illinois Supreme court in Springfield by State's Atty. Mory C. Pires and Public Defender Walter Stevens.

Lambersky was indicted by the grand jury for manslaughter in connection with the death of Kenneth LaRoy, eight-year-old state hospital patient. This indictment was set aside by Judge Dixon.

Judge Dixon ruled that testimony taken at a corner's inquest could not be used before the grand jury without Lambersky's permission. Stevens, representing Lambersky, said that Lambersky did not give permission.

Lambersky, a state hospital patient who was acting as a ward attendant, told corner's jury investigating the death of the LaRoy youth that he had put his hand on the youth's throat to quiet him. A transcript of this testimony was presented to the grand jury when it considered its indictment.

Pires, in appealing Judge Dixon's decision, claim that since Lambersky did not claim his constitutional right to refuse to testify against himself at the inquest, he cannot claim it later.

Briefs in the appeal were filed by Pires and Stevens earlier in the summer with the supreme court. The decision of the high court will not be made until a later date.

Government Acts to Unscramble Assets of Rochelle Grain Firm

In a further attempt to unscramble the tangled affairs of the Spellman Feed and Grain company, bankrupt Rochelle grain firm, the government has asked the federal court in Chicago to lump all assets of the grain business "into one pot."

The government is objecting to a claim made by Francis Spellman Jr., that the business consists of a partnership between himself and his brother, James, and of a corporation in which he and his brother holds stock.

Spellman says that the partnership consists of the trucking operation of the firm and the corporation handles the grain business.

Spellman is now free on bond on three charges of embezzlement, conversion of federal property and lying to a government agency. These charges were brought in connection with the "disappearance" of government grain from the grain company bins.

The government had stored more than 163,305 bushels of grain in the Spellman bins. The grain is valued at more than $250,000.

Same Books
The government in its petition says that the corporation and the partnership have but one set of books and records for both operations and use the same bank account.

The petition says that the corporation was formed by transferring assets of the partnership at a time when the partnership was insolvent. The government states that grain transactions with the Commodity Credit corporation were made without distinguishing the corporation or partnership as the transacting agency.

The petition charges that partnership petition for bankruptcy schedules asserts which are actually assets of the corporation.

Wants Assets "Lumped"
The government maintains that the corporation and the partnership are one and the same and asks that the assets of both be lumped together to satisfy creditors of the bankrupt grain company.

The petition asks that this be done either by the court or by John P. Devine, Dixon, federal referee in bankruptcy for the western section of the northern division of Illinois. Previous hearings on the Spellman bankruptcy petition were held before Devine.

And the court is asked to appoint a receiver for the whole business, including both the partnership and the corporation, until termination of the bankruptcy or

Witness Got Favors From Printing Firm

Fired Official of Loan Agency Tells Of Influence Gifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A recently fired RFC official testified today he accepted a number of gifts from an official of American Lithofold Corp. after helping the company get RFC loans.

The witness, Frank Prince, a nephew of Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.), made the statement in a senate investigation of charges that Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle used political influence to get loans for American Lithofold, a St. Louis printing firm.

Prince said the then vice-president of American Lithofold, R. J. Blauner, presented him with a turkey, "one small ham," a box of oranges, a box of perfumes and a camera. Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), a member of the investigating committee, said the camera was worth $103.

Second to Get Gifts
Prince was the second RFC witness to acknowledge receiving favors from an association with American Lithofold.

Oliver R. Kraft, assistant manager of the agency's St. Louis office, testified last Friday that his 1949 vacation expenses were paid by the head of the printing firm. RFC Administrator W. Stuart Symington immediately fired Kraft for "improper conduct."

American Lithofold received RFC loans totaling $584,000 in 1949.

By-Passed Review
An earlier witness today, George B. Lucas, said RFC directors bypassed the agency's review committee in granting the first of these loans, amounting to $80,000. Lucas is chairman of the review committee, which normally passes on loan applications.

Lucas testified before the senate investigations subcommittee which previously has received testimony that the national Democratic chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., arranged for officials of American Lithofold to see Harley Hise, then, RFC chairman, three days before

Gen. Ridgway Offers Peace Talk Renewal

By The Associated Press
TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today offered to renew suspended Korean cease-fire talks. But his message to Red commanders gave no indication that Kaesong was a satisfactory site.

The Reds broke off talks in that Korean city Aug. 23 in a continuing series of charges that United Nations ground and air forces were violating Kaesong's neutrality zone.

In the flurry of charges and denials, Ridgway on Sept. 5 proposed that the talks be moved to a new site. The Reds replied Saturday that the suggestion was "completely unsatisfactory and unacceptable."

In his reply to that message Monday the Allied supreme commander said:

"If you now disposed to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations which you declared on Aug. 23, I am still prepared to order my liaison officers to a meeting at the bridge at Panmunjom (Red outpost six miles south-east of Kaesong) to discuss conditions that will be mutually satisfactory for the resumption of armistice talks."

Ridgway said the Reds "have inferred a desire that negotiations be resumed. . . I again emphasize my concern in the achievement of a just and honorable military armistice."

Four Injured in Lee County Area Crashes Over Weekend

Four persons were injured in four area automobile crashes over the week-end and one car was demolished.

A car driven by George Jenkins glanced off a guard rail of the bridge on Rt. 2 which crosses the Burlington tracks near Oregon and hit a telephone pole Saturday night.

The car was demolished, according to Sheriff James White. A passenger, Ben Christenson, was taken to Warmolts clinic for treatment of injuries.

AFL Unions Invite CIO To Join 'em

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—The AFL opened its 70th national convention today with a record membership total and an invitation to the CIO and other outside unions to come back to "the house of labor."

Despite the number of members—a paid up total of 7,846,245 and an unofficial claim to nearly 9,000,000—there were advance indications by their brother AFL organizations.

One of these was the State, County and Municipal Employees, headed by Arnold Zander of Madison, Wis., which is chafing over recruiting of its members, mainly by the Teamsters and Building Service Employees.

Zander's union, with 89,000 members, has served notice on President William Green that it means to stand its ground in holding jurisdiction over state, county and municipal employees, including 7,000 policemen in 62 local unions.

Another interunion squabble which could break out in the convention involves the Maintenance of Way union—the organization of railroad track hands with a membership of 138,000. Raids by rival AFL unions have angered leaders of this union.

Both Zander and the maintenance of Way chiefs would have to consider going into the CIO as an alternative to leaving the AFL—so both are engaged in a week of jockeying.

Speakers include Green, Gov. Earl Warren, and Congressmen John F. Shelley and Frank R. Havenner, both California Democrats.

No business is scheduled until Wednesday.

A General Will Not Head Demo Ticket in '52, Truman Reveals

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Truman is reported to have told former Senator Burton K. Wheeler he doesn't expect any general to be nominated on the 1952 Democratic ticket.

This apparently put a further presidential dent in rumors that Mr. Truman might decide to step aside in favor of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at next year's convention—if the Republicans don't beat the Democrats and nominate the general first.

Senator Duff (R-Pa.) said on a television program yesterday he is "very confident" Eisenhower will accept a GOP bid "under the proper circumstances." Duff, an Eisenhower backer said he thinks the general will be a candidate if he feels the people want him and if his duties in Europe do not interfere.

The president told a recent news conference he doesn't believe Eisenhower is interested in the Democratic nomination.

Wheeler would not comment on the matter at all, but the story told by his former senatorial colleagues goes like this:

Wheeler, who served as something of a mentor for Mr. Truman when the latter was a freshman senator, went to the White House before he made a recent trip to Montana.

The president urged Wheeler, now a Washington lawyer, to seek the Democratic senatorial nomination in Montana next year to oppose Senator Ecton (R-Mont.), who beat him in 1946.

More to feel out the president's intentions than anything else, Wheeler remarked that he might not be too happy running in Montana on a ticket headed by a general.

The president assured Wheeler he wouldn't have to worry about that—nothing like that would happen. Mr. Truman didn't add anything about his own plans, however, as senators told the story.

Nation's Stock Of Blood Low, Call for More

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Defense department explained today it needs a 300,000-pint a month blood contribution between now and next July to replenish a stockpile "gravely depleted" because of dwindling donations.

In opening the new campaign last week, Gen. George C. Marshall, former secretary of defense, said donations in June totaled only 50,000 pints and in July dropped off to 36,000 pints.

Need 300,000 A Month But to meet military needs arising out of the Korean fighting and to build up an adequate reservoir for any increase in casualties or disaster at home the flow must be boosted to 300,000 monthly for the rest of this fiscal year, Marshall said.

Emphasizing now imperative is the need, Marshall said that if every American whose blood can be used will make his donations "more of our wounded will live to return home." He left unsaid the opposite—if they don't, men will die.

98 of 100 Live The American military medical record in the Korean war is better than that of any army in history. Of every 100 men, wounded, 98 are saved. Quick evacuation from the battlefield to hospitals, improved surgery, improved treatment is partly responsible.

But one of the primary factors is the present day large scale use of blood, both whole blood and the storable plasma. Many times the difference between a wounded man dying of the shock induced by his wounds or living to reach a hospital and recovery.

Best treatment is whole blood. It can be preserved for only 21 days, but swift airplane transport of shipments and refrigeration makes possible delivery to the war zone from blood donor centers in the U.S.

Next best is plasma, which is dried into powder and can be stored for five years, without refrigeration. For use, it need be mixed only with sterile water.

CAB Blames Pilot Of Plane Which Dived, Killed 20

FLAGLER, COLO. —(AP)—A Civil Aeronautics board official says CAB regulations obviously were violated in an air show plane crash which killed 20 persons. Seventeen persons were injured. A stunt plane plunged into closely parked cars and spectators during the air show in this small farming town Saturday.

Regional CAB Chief R. P. Parshall, directing a probe today, said:

"It was obvious the pilot was too close to the crowd."

He described the crash as "the worst tragedy involving a small aircraft in this country's aviation history."

The 20 dead, including the pilot, were killed or fatally injured when a low wing monoplane stunt craft crashed and scattered over 1,500 yards packed with rows of parked cars and spectators at an air show highlighting the Flagler fall festival.

The wing of the plane snagged on wheat stubble as the pilot, First Lt. Normal L. Jones, a student at the Lowry air force base photo school, on temporary duty from Davis-Monthan base at Tucson, Ariz., did a barrel-roll in the civilian craft.

Hunt Maniac As Killer of Blond Nurse

ANN ARBOR, Mich., (AP)—A twisted killer who bludgeoned an attractive blond nurse to death on a tree-darkened street was hunted today throughout this college town.

But police are virtually without clues to the identity of the person who struck down Pauline Campbell, 34, early Sunday in front of her rooming house. Her skull was fractured with two blows from a blunt instrument.

Near Dorms

Officers are checking reports of other recent molestations of women in the dimly-lighted neighborhood. It is a half block from several large University of Michigan women's dormitories, just now opening for the fall term.

Women in the area sought escorts or walked home together Sunday night, expressing fear that the slugs might attack again.

The motive for the slaying was listed as "possible robbery or sex." But Police Sergeant Claude Damros said the killer evidently was a maniac. He expressed the belief the man was still in the city.

There was no indication of rape, police said. But known sex deviates are being questioned in search of a clue.

Furnishes Clue

Another possible clue came from Barbara Ferguson, another nurse who lived in the same house with Miss Campbell. She told police she heard two men talking in muffled tones outside the house about midnight. She heard a groan, she said, and immediately afterwards a car started away rapidly.

Another nurse, Shirley Mackley, 22, reported that she was struck behind the ear with a blunt instrument Wednesday night as she was walking in the same neighborhood. Her assailant fled when she screamed, she said.

Navy Says It Has Carrier Atom Crews

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Admiral William F. Hechler said today the navy now has carrier crews trained to handle atomic bombs.

He said this includes both men in the ship crews and those who fly the carrier planes.

The chief of naval operations told a news conference that the planes would be used for "tactical" operations of the fleet (against naval targets ashore or afloat).

He said the navy already has two types of planes which can operate off a carrier and carry atomic bombs. They are the A-1 attack plane and the P-2V Neptune patrol bomber.

The navy started practicing with the use of simulated atomic bombs in exercises last spring and will use them again in the current exercises which started in the Atlantic yesterday, Hechler said.

During the last year, the nuclear fission weapon experts have reportedly developed a compact size atomic bomb which can be handled in comparatively small planes. Thus they could be used in carrier-based planes as well as in light bombers and possible fighters of the air force.

On Guard, Girls! The Bachelors Are Organizing 25,000 Join Protective Assn., But What's It Protecting Them Against?

NEW YORK—(NEA)—This is a time to panic the orange blossom and throw a scare into the old shoes market, but it must be told. America's bachelors are organizing.

For better or worse, 25,000 unmarried males are now enrolled in the Bachelors Protective association. But there's some doubt about what the Bachelors Protective association is protecting bachelors against. It isn't the horror marriage. You have the word of National Director R. W. Hemsch on that.

"We're not anti-social," says Hemsch. "We're not opposed to marriage."

The official BPA opinion on the subject of the wedded state is crystal clear. They think marriage is a fine, American-type kind of business and no couple should be without one.

Hemsch's bachelor apartment is the national headquarters of the BPA. The apartment is a cozy place—thick carpets, two couches, three easy chairs, a bowl of goldfish and no etchings. Every evening, Hemsch and his cronies gather and get on with the business of protecting bachelors.

They started the organization about a year ago. It began mostly as a gag, and it still is. Members are sent a membership card and a mock insurance policy, which gayly promises to insure them against marriage, weddings and similar disasters. All this costs only 35 cents.

Business among the single men is booming. Collegians, who like to think of themselves as old-established bachelors, are big customers. So are fraternal organizations, liberally peppered with unmarried men. Ditto salesmen, who feel a 35-cent gag gift to customers is a fine investment in good will.

Once a man is enrolled, he is offered a subscription to BPA News, full of gossip and helpful tips to the wifeless. A recent issue contained an article called "How to Start a Bachelor's Club in Five Easy Lessons," some talk about a national convention, a sales pitch for an official BPA tie ("just the thing to wear when you attend your local Bachelor Club meetings, parties, and dates") and a raft of letters from satisfied bachelors.

One such was from a member in Pittsburgh, who needed help. His girl had talked him into marriage.

"I've looked high and low," he wrote, "and I can't find any way out of this mess. You've got to save me. I'm a member in good standing and I carry my insurance policy that you sent me in my wallet constantly. You're my last hope so don't let a fellow bachelor down in his greatest hour of need with doom impending."

Hemsch says nothing can be done for the poor fellow. The insurance policy is all they offer. After that, it's every man for himself.

Another activity of BPA is conducting a Bachelor Opinion Poll

THIS BACHELOR'S DREAM seems to be a girl who'll carry him away. The dream is also one of the symbols of the Bachelors Protective Association, and since the girl in the case seems to have similar thoughts, a chivalrous artist has offered his own brand of protection by making the couple anonymous.

among members. Hemsch calls it "exploring the sociological aspects of bachelorhood."

This is done through such questions as "Do most women prefer well-heeled men rather than men who merely are interesting and intelligent?" and "Do most women become over-possessive as soon as they become engaged?" (In case you're interested, an overwhelming majority answered "yes" to both questions).

One definite fact was uncovered in the last poll, which should make feminine hearts beat with more optimism. It turned out that 89 per cent of the bachelors who answered said they might still get married. Only 11 per cent were in the bachelor business as a career.

Expect New Wage Order Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The first order dealing with individual salary increases will place a six per cent ceiling a year on total merit and length of service increases an employer may grant, officials said last night.

The Salary Stabilization Board, set up to put ceilings on salaries of baseball players, executives, foremen and others not under the jurisdiction of the wage board, is expected to issue the order tomorrow.

The officials said the order would soon be followed by another, this one to eliminate inequities in the salaries of some foremen. Since most foremen are exempt from overtime, workers under them are getting higher wages in some cases than the foremen themselves.

One of Baltimore Quads Dies; One Other Near Death

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Three of Baltimore's latest quads were still holding their own today but were on the critical list at city hospitals.

Gloria died Saturday. She was the third of the two girls and two boys born Friday night to Mrs. Susie Avance, 31-year-old Negro widow. The quads were delivered within six minutes of each other and were the third set born in Baltimore within five years.

The infants' weights ranged from two pounds, six ounces, to two pounds, 14 ounces. They were born about six weeks premature. Mrs. Avance's husband was stabbed to death two months ago. She has five other children besides the surviving quads.

Governor Orders Probe of 'Mrs. America' Contest

TALLAHASSEE, FLA. —(AP)—New Jersey Gov. Alfred Driscoll has ordered an investigation of the Mrs. America contest, says Florida advertising commission director Beverly Grizzard.

Grizzard said he had protested to the governor after several judges announced the most votes had gone to Mrs. Central Florida—Mrs. Peggy Creel of St. Petersburg—though she was given third place. Mrs. New York City—Mrs. Penny Duncan—was the announced winner.

Winter Always Comes as a Surprise to Army Supply Corps; Boyle Hopes Clothing Arrives

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, (AP)—The army says that this year the boys in combat are going to get their winter equipment when they need it.

History has shown that a soldier needs winter equipment when it gets cold. The object of giving him this type of clothing is to keep him warm, and protect his morale, so that he will go on with the fight.

A dispatch from Korea quotes Col. Albert K. Stebbins, the Eighth army supply officer, as promising this about winter clothing for the troops:

"We're going to get it all up to them on time this year."

This is a brave goal.

Tells Experiences
I certainly wouldn't dare to say the American army this year won't clothe its troops properly in time against the rigors of winter. But I will say that I never knew it to do it before.

I have spent four winters with American combat armies on three continents. In none of those campaigns did all the frontline troops get the warm clothing they yearned for when they most needed it.

There was always an excuse. And there will be this year unless we nail it on the head now—in advance. The army says that by the first of November it will have clothed its infantrymen against the bitterest weather in Korea. Let's remember that date.

Winter Surprise
Many veterans will know what I mean when I say the American army, certainly since 1941, has dressed for war as a summer pastime and met the march of winter with a rueful surprise.

Nobody ever got frostbite in the air-conditioned supply headquarters in the Pentagon. But there would have been even more frostbite cases in the northern corks forests of Tunisia if our men hadn't been generously supplied by British troops in the field.

Africa, said the army blue book, had a hot, dry climate. The fellow who wrote that in Washington never left water in his helmet over night in the Kasserine valley and awoke to find it frozen. Nor did he freeze himself at night in the hills above that valley. But other American men did.

Froze in Italy
So did they freeze in the lonely backbone of Italy in early 1944. But by late February, when it was warming, a man couldn't carry all the warm clothing the army suddenly hit him with.

The American army's shock at the advent of winter in the mountainous Ardennes is hard to forget. I recall soldiers pulling ammo on rude sleds. I recall the First army flew in some Alaskan dogs to do the trick, too, and they arrived after spring thaws had turned the snowy roads to mud.

I recall the German troops had white camouflage clothing and we didn't. I recall we flew white chesecloth in from England and Belgian girls sewed it into makeshift snow capes for our boys.

Blankets For Feet
I recall our troops cut up blankets to wrap around their feet because they didn't have enough cold weather boots. And I recall an American doctor at a 30th Infantry division field hospital saying, as they brought in a German frostbite victim:

"I have been taking off American boys' legs all day long. I hate to say it, but it will be a pleasure to take off an enemy leg for a change."

The winter unpreparedness last year in Korea, the price of frostbite there, is too near to talk much about. The talk then was there would be plenty of warm clothing. There wasn't.

But I think it would be nice if, right now, some supply officer in the Pentagon would stick his finger out the window and say, "My, it's getting cooler. I wonder if it isn't also getting cooler in Korea."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Obedience insures greatness, whilst disobedience leads to a repulse. Whosoever possesseth the qualities of righteousness placeth his head on the threshold of obedience.—Saadi.

Use of Military Funds Must Be Explained If Safety Permits

There may be a very important reason why a senate appropriations subcommittee suddenly and mysteriously added $5 billion to the military appropriations bill to make a staggering $61 billion total for the current fiscal year.

The extra money is labeled a reserve fund for military and naval aviation. It was affixed to the bill after a last-minute closed hearing. It was not part of the defense department's original requests for the year.

According to the initial leaks from the committee room, the money was for "fantastic new weapons" of the sort President Truman and others have recently hinted at. Later advice had it that it was for expanding more conventional aviation equipment to carry or use the new weapons.

In the absence of more specific information, it is impossible safely to criticize this proposed outlay. Yet the manner in which it has been handled points up sharply the weakness of present appropriations bill procedure.

The strict necessities of security and the technical complexities of modern warfare impose heavy burdens upon the lawmakers who today must decide how much money to approve. Frank disclosure and discussion is virtually impossible. Congressmen have no choice in many instances but to take the military's word, since they have no experts equally well qualified to judge the merit of a projected expenditure.

In this predicament, sensible analysis and criticism of military outlays is highly unlikely. The lawmakers' control of the purse, traditional weapon for maintaining civilian domination over the military in a democratic nation, is thus endangered.

This is no chicken feed. The sum involved almost equals the new tax bill as proposed by the senate. The whole performance is disquieting, to say the least.

What assurance have we that the extra $5 billion will fit a clearly-defined, up-to-date concept of national defense? What kind of defense are we building anyway? How does this fund affect the relative roles of Army, Navy and Air force? What impact will it have on Allied political policy?

Since we must rely on the judgment of our trained military experts, the burden is upon them to make their decisions with utmost soundness, to have regard at all times for wise economies. And they and the administration with which they are linked owe it to the American people to do as much as they dare in order to justify their demands.

Soviet Hinders Crusade

Harold Stassen says the Russians are sending up fighter planes to knock down Crusade for Freedom balloons bearing anti-Communist propaganda behind the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia.

This isn't too surprising, if we recall the frenzy with which the Reds have sought to jam American propaganda broadcasts, and the fervent appeal by the Czech government itself to get powerful Radio Free Europe off the air. You can see how much they love the idea of a free interchange of information.

Can't you imagine how the Soviet air force communicates are reading these days?

"Six Soviet fighter planes shot down 15 plastic propaganda balloons and created turbulent air drafts which compelled 10 others to return to their bases. All propaganda material in the destroyed balloons was reduced to ashes before it reached ground."

RUTH MILLETT

People Relax in Different Ways, So Be Open Minded

News item with a Dallas, Texas, date line: "A husband's plea that his wife be rationed to one comic book daily because they interfered with her household duties has been denied by Peace Justice Bill Richberg."

Reading further in the story, you the wife's reply to the husband's charge: That she needed to read comic books to relax.

Her reply may sound absurd to women who find their relaxation in more intellectual or worthwhile pursuits.

But who is to say how anybody else should get relaxation—even a husband or a judge?

Plenty of women fail to understand how their husbands' get relaxation: from sitting in a boat in the broiling sun hour after hour while the fish refuse to bite, or crutching in a blind hoping to get a shot at a few ducks, or trudging after a golf ball when its too hot to mow the lawn.

And plenty of men can't figure out why a woman likes to get away from it all by spending a day shopping, or an afternoon at a beauty salon or at a bridge table, or by going to meetings.

MARRIED COUPLES ARE ARIE TO CRITICAL

But that doesn't mean those pursuits aren't relaxing to the ones who choose them.

So if the wife finds comic books relaxing, that is her business.

Husbands and wives tend to be far critical of each other when it comes to how the other likes to spend leisure time.

The best rule for husbands and wives is to let each choose his or her own means of relaxation and to regard the choice with a tolerant eye.

What sounds like a stupid waste of time to one spouse may well be perfect relaxation for the other.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — Behind the Screen: Hollywood's best soap opera of 1951, "Will Shelley Winters Marry Farley Granger?" isn't necessarily headed for the orange blossom and wedding ring chapter just because they'll be hand-holding-it around Europe for the next six weeks.

Shelley, who's in the Oscar running for her performance in "A Place in the Sun," slipped the word just before she completed a new movie role, grabbed Farley's hot little hand and hopped aboard a plane for Paris.

"I still don't know if I want to get married," she told me. "Sometime I think I do." Then, as a quick afterthought, she added: "But why should I get married? Then there won't be any more wonderful publicity."

Shelley scampered off the set of "Phone Call From a Stranger" to answer a phone call from Granger and came back with: "Farley says to tell you he'll be staying on the Right Bank in Paris and I'll be on the Left Bank."

"That," I deadpanned, "may hurt you politically."
"Maybe so," snapped Shelley, "but it won't hurt me morally."

It isn't generally known, but George Raft took that Rocky Jordan radio show for AFRA wage scale on a sustaining basis just to establish himself with the character for a video series.

HIS FACE IS RED

Stewart Granger is embarrassed—and willing to admit it—about his old English movies popping up on television. "They were awful and I was awful," he told me between scenes of MGM's remake of "Scaramouche." One of the old flickers is "The Magic Bow," in which he plays a violinist. "That's one I'm particularly embarrassed about," his teeth gnashed.

He can't win deep: Nancy Sinatra already has tied up Frankie boy's 20 per cent financial share of "Meet Danny Wilson," the movie he recently completed at U.I. Biggest laugh on the set, by the way, was Frank's makeup man packing a revolver.

Vera Ellen is just about the only person in Hollywood who isn't surprised at the boxoffice success of her English musical, "Happy Go Lovely," which was quietly filmed in London a year and a half ago.

"I knew it was a good script," she told me, "and I got MGM's permission to do the part because there was much more dialog and acting for me than I usually get. Now people are coming up to me saying, 'You know, I LIKED 'Happy Go Lovely.'"

It won't be in the publicity releases, but MGM's "Lovely to Look At" is a remake of Irene Dunne's great hit, "Roberta."

"Her 'Smoke Gets in Your Eyes' number now is a dream sequence for Marge and Gower Champion, who join the movie space scientists by dancing onto this world onto the Milky Way.

SHE WAS BURNING

Phyllis Kirk's contract at Warners after she was dropped at MGM resulted in angry words and a partnership split-up between two Hollywood agents.

They're talking about the Dixie-born stenographer at Paramount who cooed: "Isn't it just wonderful about the studio signing up that southern boy from 'The King and I.'"

"Southern boy?" gasped her companion.
"I'm talking about You-All Brynner, honey," came the floorer.

Short Takes: A Hollywood men's clothing store is advertising, "Final Purge." . . . Joan Leslie has signed for a Fireside Theater show, "Black Savannah."

Advertisement in a Hollywood trade paper: "Wanted for TV—Female Bombshell."

But aren't there too many already?

Wayne Morris joins John Ireland in the cast of "The Bushwhackers." . . . Eddie Dmytryk is reported writing a "Soviet spy story." . . . Sign of the times: Celebrity Service has put in a TV celeb department.

Ninety-six big star names have signed up for "Movietime, U.S.A." personal appearance tours . . . Endurance Note: Leon Errol is celebrating his 50th year in show business. He's been under contract to RKO since 1931.

Fourteen Die As Mexican Cabaret Burns

MEXICO CITY—(AP) Fourteen persons were burned fatally or trapped to death when flames, touched off by fireworks, flashed through the crowded "Can Can" cabaret yesterday. The victims included one U. S. business man.

Ten of the dead were women—mostly hostesses. The American was identified as Reed A. Goodridge, 51, Baltimore, Md., dealer in rare books.

A total of 90 persons were injured in the disaster, 26 of them seriously. About a thousand persons jammed the place when the fire broke out.

TV Electrician Dies at Controls

NEW YORK (AP)—With their boss dead at the control board, four electricians behaved like real trouper last night and didn't miss a cue as the zany Spike Jones television show went on.

44th Division Officers To Be Sent to School

URBANA — (AP) — The commander of the 44th Illinois National Guard division expects 95 per cent of the eligible officers and non-commissioned officers will attend army training schools before the 44th goes on active duty in February.

Maj. Gen. Harry L. Bolen of Cairo made the estimate at a meeting of 30 top division officers in Urbana yesterday. They met to make plans for sending volunteers to training schools.

The downstate outfit was alerted last week. It will be sent to Camp Cooke, Calif., for training.

Schools to which the division can send applicants include the army infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.; armored school at Fort Knox, Ky.; artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla.; leadership schools at Fort Riley, Kan., and Fort Knox and a variety of technical training schools.

"The 44th is the luckiest National Guard division yet called," Bolen declared. He said: "In the first place, we got five months' notice. (Some guard divisions got only 30 days).

"Secondly, we're getting the best training site in the country. (Camp Cooke is on the California coast between Santa Barbara and Pismo Beach).

"It is right on the Pacific ocean, we expect our training, which will be at least nine months' duration at Camp Cooke, will be most intensive next summer. It is cool there in the summer; you can wear a wool shirt in midday on the Fourth of July.

"The camp is well laid out and quarters for troops are good." Bolen said he assumed family accommodations would be a big problem, however—"as it is at camps all over the country."

No Overseas Plans

Bolen said he knows of no plan to send the division overseas.

"The morale and spirit of the division is high. We have accepted an obligation and we expect to follow through it and make this an outfit the people of Illinois will be proud of," he said.

Bolen and Col. J. F. Homfeld, Urbana, chief of staff, are going to Chicago Wednesday to confer with Fifth Army officers.

A—Nature evolved the six-legged insects from many-legged ancestors because walking on two pairs of legs is not efficient for a small animal encased in an external skeleton.

Q—What eight Presidents of the United States served less than one term?

A—William Henry Harrison, John Tyler, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Andrew Johnson, James A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur, and Warren G. Harding.

Q—In what occupation are the most women employed?

A—There are now more women stenographers, typists and other office workers in America than there are women in any other occupation. In the last 80 years, government figures indicate that the number of women in these clerical jobs has risen from a few thousand to over four-million.

Q—Why do we refer to a golf course as the "links"?

A—The word "links," in Scottish, originally designated undulating sandy and hilly land along the seashore. Golf courses were called links because they were most numerous along the coast.

So They Say

We would make a grave mistake if we traded British exploitation for Soviet imperialism.

—Prince Khosrov Ghasghai, leader of one of Iran's most powerful tribes.

It may be months before you see me in the well of the House again. I'd like to take this opportunity to wish you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

—Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R., N. D.), who rarely makes House speech, at end of short talk in July.

They're (self-important Government officials) like all the ants caught on a log that's floating down a river. Every one of those ants thinks he's steering.

The only thing they're casting out there (in Hollywood) these days is aspersions.

—Lady Iris Mountbatten.

It is very important (for both labor and political organizations) to foster and maintain independent thinking among their members. There is a deplorable tendency for the leaders of groups, as they grow powerful, to want only yes men in their organization.

—Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.).

While there is an awareness in Europe of the Russian menace, nevertheless there is an apparent lethargy about rearmament, and a good deal of fatalistic thinking about the future.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Big Republicans Are Making a Mistake to Think That Taft Can't Win in 1952

(COPYRIGHT, 1949, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.)

NEW YORK—The Big Republicans are a lot of concealed yellow-bellies without the slightest moral or political integrity. Nevertheless, because they intend to contribute a few hundred or a few thousand dollars each to the campaign funds, they have the effrontery to regard themselves as a sort of board of directors of the party with the right to pick the candidate who will be the alternative to Truman when the people go to the polls to decide not merely the presidency for the next quadrennium but the fate of the nation.

It is no exaggeration to say that the fate of the nation will be decided in that election because if Truman gets a third term he will not longer have to affect the few remaining restraints upon a brutal, vulgar, reckless nature, so ominously revealed in his give-'em-hell speeches and his vicious letters. His Marxian manipulators, centered in New York, then will have a willing agent for their plans. These plans are, at the minimum, a duplication here of the essentials of the British Socialism, the last stop this side of Moscow, and probably a spread of the present war with Russia far beyond the localized Korean front. Truman and Roosevelt never have been able to operate the nation's economy without war as the principal customer and stimulant to employment. And the horrible old frauds of the union movement, incapable of any thought beyond their own power, their patty vanity and their bellies, already have declared themselves in on the false boodle of the third and final world war.

There seems to be no other hope of restraining them and smashing the power of their organizations except Robert A. Taft. War is the only economic program of the Democratic party and its covert operators and war, of course, inevitably will wipe out the American economy if the War Party is elected again.

Yet, Republicans of cynical mien, the kind who think they are clever and original when they speak of "compromise" as a good substitute for victory, turn down Senator Taft offhand with the observation that although he is by far the best man to stand off doom, they would rather win with Eisenhower than lose with Taft. The conviction that their best man can't win is the best propaganda that the Marxian Truman conspiracy could want. And nobody is more active in spreading it than the very men who should be hollering up Taft's abilities and his chances.

Why can't Taft win? The reason given is so shallow as to throw serious doubt on the right of the American people to the privilege of self-government. He has no political sex-appeal. He is, in other words, an honest, intellectual patriot with the belly for a fight and a gentleman who will not resort to the language which prompted Bernard Baruch, in the only moment of honest courage in all his political life, to call Truman "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man." Taft won't threaten to commit mayhem on Truman or write filthy letters, but he showed in 1948 and again in his senatorial re-election campaign that he wouldn't back away when the goons of the CIO and the A. F. of L. threatened him and his wife with mob assault.

How do these plush-pelt Republicans, these posturing dead-end kids, in their intervals between their poker-games in their New York deadfall near the park, come to the conclusion that Taft can't win? Has he ever lost? How can they say he won't fight? Who fought through the Taft-Hartley law, the only victory for the people over the entrenched mob of murdering unionizers with their unlimited taxing power over almost fifteen million faceless serfs? Taft did it. Taft confronted the gangs in their own strongholds and never stepped back an inch.

The pathetic yearning for Eisenhower is the measure of the integrity and ability of petty name-droppers of the Republican directorate who think they are impressing lesser men by speaking familiarly of "Ike" and "Bob." Even if he should declare himself to be an orthodox Republican, Eisenhower would still have a ghastly guilt in the present tragic situation from which he is now trying to extricate us in Europe. He never raised his voice against the Russian onrush into Germany which overwhelmed Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic and Balkans. And, after the war, he lacked the guts to defend the beaten German people from the revenge which for more than four years held them in a condition to which no western race had been degraded since reconstruction in the south. You judge a man's wisdom and his ability by his past performances. But Eisenhower was a slunk for Roosevelt, bucking for the job of C-in-C and yessing the Mad Mahatma to keep it. And his weakness in joining the cowardly persecution of the Germans was disgraceful by contrast with Taft's immediate, uncompromising fight in the senate against retroactive criminal legislation and his great and wise courage in holding out for a return to sanity at once—not eventually.

The anti-Taft campaign within his own camp by men who pretend to be straight Republicans is a mad freak of politics. A few hundred self-important magnates take it on themselves to decide that the people of the United States shall not have a chance to vote for the man whom they frankly concede to be the best man in the nation.

Truman is still a true protégé of crooked old Tom Pendergast. His own people hold him in contempt so, in malice, he turned to Americans for Democratic Action and the criminal goons of unionism, willingly selling his country into war and Marx for the pay and power that goes with the job of president.

If Taft can't lick that specimen, the people won't desert. Taft but will deserve Truman and the worst that that implies.

Jacoby on Canasta

To Win, Cooperate With Partner

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Before Canasta become popular some people used to wonder what would happen if an irresistible force met an immovable body. The old answer used to be that there is no such thing as an irresistible force or an immovable body. Now we know better.

It happens in Canasta all the time. The irresistible force is the player who always plays for a fast out; and the immovable body is his partner, who never adds to a meld and always plays for the pack. The result? Disaster.

I saw it happen again just the other night. The discard pile grew for quite a time, and then one player melded seven cards from his hand. He had two wild cards and a pair of natural cards left. He thought he had a fine chance to meld out in the next turn or two, and he would have been right with any other partner. But this time he was playing with the immovable body.

Old Immovable simply froze the pack when his turn came. He had a million safe discards. He might have a partner who was weak enough to meld, but he was made of sterner stuff. He would show the world. And he did.

Old Immovable didn't give the pack away. But his poor partner, with only four cards, eventually had to give it up. Then the opponents had a field day. They could make only three natural canastas, but that wasn't too bad inasmuch as they managed to complete four mixed canastas before the hand finally came to an end. They scored well over three thousand points, thanks to Old Immovable. Just for the sake of argument, let's suppose that the original meld was a poor choice instead of a very sound idea. Let's suppose that your partner has made this miserable meld. What should you do about it?

Nothing can alter the fact that the player across the table from you is your partner. For better or for worse, you are stuck with that player until the end of the game. You will get better results if you both play in the same general direction—even an inferior direction—than if you both play in different directions.

Once your partner has melded down to a four-card hand, your side has to play for a fast out. It is no longer possible to play for the pack. Whether you like it or not, you must help your partner to meld out. That should be easy if your partner has made a good meld. But even if it is difficult, it is better than no chance at all.

Dixon Girl Will Hold Office Job At Church Center

When she reports to the Church of the Brethren center, New Windsor, Maryland, on Oct. 1, Miss Donna Butterbaugh, Dixon, will begin work as a secretary in the German student office at that place. The 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Butterbaugh, Rt. 3, Dixon, has been very active in the Dixon Church of the Brethren. Before leaving Dixon she was a member of the church choir and for a number of years a member of the CBYF youth group.

Employed for two years as secretary to Morey C. Pires, Lee County State's Atty., Donna, left Dixon in June of 1950 for training as a volunteer service worker of the Church of the Brethren. A graduate of Dixon High school with the class of 1947 and of Dixon Business college, Donna took two months training for her church work at New Windsor, Md.

Following her two months training as a volunteer service worker, the Dixon girl went to Alderson, West Va. for the remainder of her year's service. In Alderson she was a counselor and friend to the inmates at the Federal Reformatory for Women (the only federal reformatory for women in the world) at Alderson.

Interesting Work

With Donna were two other female workers, one from Colorado, the other from Pennsylvania. Later a girl from Ohio and one from California joined the trio. The girls all had private rooms in the officer's quarters at the reformatory and ate their meals in the dining room.

The work of Miss Butterbaugh and the other volunteers was entirely volunteer work but they were each given $7.50 a month for their personal needs.

In June, 1951, with her year's work completed in the church, Miss Butterbaugh returned to Dixon for a two weeks visit with her parents. In July she returned to New Windsor where she worked for a month in the German student office to become acquainted with her new work. In August she returned to Dixon where she will remain until reporting for her new position. While in this city she worked for two weeks as vacation help in the office of Dixon, Bales and Gunner.

Beef and Pork Prices to Rise Under New OPS Ceilings

The $80,000 loan was approved.

Denies Charges
The committee is investigating charges, which Boyle has denied, that the Democratic chairman used political influence on RFC lending operations.

Two other members of a senate investigations subcommittee disagreed over interpretation of testimony in their inquiry into Boyle's role in the granting of $645,000 of government loans to a St. Louis printing firm in 1949. The loans have been paid off in full.

Refute Innocence
Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) contended the Democratic chairman's "claims of innocence have been refuted under oath."

But Senator McClellan (D-Ark.), who is viewed generally as far from friendly to the Truman administration, said that "up to now the testimony doesn't bear out the strong implication" that Boyle collected $8,000 in "commissions" from the American Lithofold Corp., St. Louis printing firm, after it got RFC loans totaling $645,000. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has printed articles to that effect. Boyle says Lithofold paid him $1,250 for legal work not related to the loans.

Quick Action
James E. Toole, former treasurer of Lithofold, testified last week that Boyle arranged a 1949 meeting between negotiators for the firm and Harley Hise, then chairman of the RFC board of directors, and that the first of the loans was approved three days later.

Ernest B. Howard, former chief of the RFC business loans division testified that a number of usual procedures were "by-passed" by the agency in making the loans.

Other Links
Nixon told a Republican political picnic rally near Waukegan, Ill., yesterday that the inquiry will deal with the influence of Boyle "and some of his Democratic National committee associates in matters apart from the granting of the American Lithofold company loan."

The subcommittee Nixon said, should ask Boyle "what gifts he has received from other companies, as well as from the American Lithofold company since becoming party chairman."

Civil War Eggs Found In Basement

CONCORD, Ill. (AP)—Residents of this Morgan county village are trying to figure out who buried 600 dozen eggs and then forgot about them.

Remains of the ancient eggs were found by workmen excavating a basement under an old residence near the old Concord stage road. They were buried in barrels. The old shells were bound together in some substance which now resembles cement.

Old timers believe the eggs were buried during the Civil War. They believe they may have been destined for General Grant's army when it marched from Camp Butler, near Springfield, to the Illinois river.

County School Area Joined to Walnut District

An area in the southwest corner of Lee county is now part of the Walnut Community high school district after a hearing on a petition this morning in the office of John Torrens, county school superintendent.

Torrens said that no one appeared to oppose the petition made by residents of sections in Hamilton and Harmon townships. The students in this area had previously attended Walnut high school on a tuition basis.

Residents in three sections and parts of three sections in Brooklyn township south of West Brooklyn have asked the LaSalle county court at Ottawa to be detached from Community Unit School District 271 and to be attached to the Mendota Community grade school district.

The LaSalle court will hold a hearing on this Oct. 3. The Mendota district has been operating bus service to sections nearby which are already a part of the district.

Housewives Will Notice Results Soon

Anticipate Hike of Two Cents a Pound; Two Packers Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Beef prices are going up at wholesale and retail. So are butcher shop ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulder. For the housewife it will mean about two cents a pound more.

The government's Office of Price Stabilization announced the increase in wholesale beef ceilings last night and said the beef and pork retail hikes will be coming out in the next few days.

A beef carcass under the new wholesale ceilings, effective Wednesday, will be about a penny-a-pound higher. The OPS said this is necessary because prices for hides and fats from a beef animal have dropped to a point, denting packer processing profits.

Packers Protest
Two big Midwest packing houses immediately protested that the penny increase is not enough to help them out of a squeeze between the price of live beef and the amount they can pay for under ceiling regulations.

The higher beef wholesale prices will require the higher retail prices. These changes in butcher shop ceilings will average about 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound more to the housewife for beef cuts.

In adjusting wholesale beef prices, the OPS also moved to correct what it said has been generally too high ceilings for the better cuts of beef and to low ceilings for cheaper cuts.

Had a Choice
The OPS said it had a choice about letting beef prices go up. It could have restored packer profit margins to what they were before hide and tallow prices dropped by merely reducing the allowable price packers may pay for live cattle. This would have allowed retail prices to remain unchanged.

But the agency said this was "impractical at the present time because, since congress eliminated slaughter controls, packers have been experiencing difficulty in obtaining cattle at the present live cattle ceiling prices."

Fearful Black Market
In other words, OPS officials feared lower cattle prices might lead to a meat shortage . . . and a black market.

"The only practical alternative," the agency's statement said, "is to raise dressed beef prices by an amount, sufficient to give packers the operating margin required under the legislation."

The two packers, both located in Indianapolis, said they doubted the increase in prices they are allowed to pay for live beef will help them. Stark, Wetzel and Company said it would be forced to reduce its beef kill by 30 to 35 per cent. Kligan and Company said it would not reduce the beef kill now but will continue to lose money on beef.

Shoes Lower?
One consolation for higher beef prices is that the lower tallow and hide prices probably foreshadow somewhat lower retail costs for soap and shoes. However, OPS officials declined to say what they would do to beef prices if tallow and hides markets soar once more.

The higher retail ceilings for ham, bacon and pork shoulders are due this week—a few cents a pound, officials said. This will continue the profit-margin principle for these pork cuts which OPS already has granted for pork roasts and chops.

Pork Declines
However, the pork profit margin regulations require that retail ceilings go down automatically when live hog prices decline. OPS officials said that if the recent hog market decline continues, lower pork ceilings will result.

Along with its new wholesale beef ceilings, OPS raised ceilings for the utility grade of live cattle. The change at Chicago was from $21.80 to $23.45 a hundred pounds with the same relative adjustment at other cattle centers.

Utility grade beef is used mainly for sausage and canned meats. Little of it is sold in butcher shops.

until a trustee is appointed. Will Act Sept. 27

The court will act on the petition Sept. 27. The hearing will be before Judge Sam Perry who was recently appointed by President Truman. He was the one judge approved by both Truman and Senator Douglas in the recent squabble over judgeships for the Illinois federal district court.

At present Harold Smith, Rockford, an employee of the California Packing company, is trustee for the corporation. He was elected at a previous bankruptcy hearing before Devine after being nominated by Atty. Henry Warner, Dixon. He will lose his job, or be reappointed, as trustee if the court or Devine decide that the corporation and the partnership are one and the same.

Truman Likens Kremlin to 'Beast of Prey' in Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman likened the Kremlin to "a beast of prey" today. He spoke at a ceremony in which the United States constitution and Declaration of Independence were sealed in new protective cases.

Truman said the freedoms embodied in the yellowing parchment documents are growing throughout the world except in the Soviet Union whose rulers, he declared, hold "their citizens in terror and bondage."

Live in Fear
"The Soviet citizens live in fear," the president told the audience at the Library of Congress. "Their society is a jungle, through which the naked power of the government prowls like a beast of prey, making all men afraid."

The precious 175-year-old Declaration of Independence and 164-year-old Constitution were locked away in gas-filled, glass and bronze containers to preserve them for centuries.

Scientists had worked for more than a decade designing the new cases to protect them against moisture, vermin, harsh light and other hazards while keeping them still visible, through double-paned glass, for many future generations.

A Living Force
Truman said the pieces of parchment are more than historical relics—"they are a living force in our life today," containing ideas which will never perish.

"These documents," he said, "express the highest principles of political life. That all men have certain unalienable rights, that governments are set up to provide for the welfare of the people, and that the rule of law stands above government and citizen alike."

"In the Soviet Union the power of the state is above all rights. The government does not have to obey the law. As a result, the citizens of the Soviet Union enjoy none of the freedoms which they are guaranteed by their constitution."

Not Participants
The survivor also said he and his companions in the automobile were not participants in the brawl in which Moretti was beaten.

Witnesses testified at inquest sessions last week that Moretti had made a round of taverns with a taxi driver.

Moretti has not testified at the inquest. However, he did testify before the grand jury which refused to indict him.

Retired Head Of Engineers Dies in Home

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Alvanoy Johnston, 76, who was grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers for a quarter century before his retirement last year, died early today.

He suffered a heart attack at his home in suburban Shaker Heights last night, and died in his sleep this morning.

At the time of his retirement he said his proudest possession was a 50-year membership pin in the 81,000-member brotherhood. His successor was James P. Shields.

Johnston, a stocky, heavy set man with iron gray hair, was known as "Al" to thousands of railroaders. His railroad career started at the age of 17 when he became a call boy and wiper in Grand Forks, N.D.

He came to public notice in May 1946, when his organization and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen led by the late Alexander F. Whitney, clashed with President Truman over a walkout of their unions.

The strike ended in two days, as the president called upon congress to draft the strikers into the army.

Will pass legislation boosting the rates substantially.

Already Increased
The senate already has voted to increase all mail rates and the house will take up a measure this week to hike second and third class rates.

Truman said most of the $500,000 office department comes from 000,000 a year deficit in the post-office on second and third class rates. These cover the mailing of newspapers and books as well as magazines.

"I am glad to say that a large number of newspaper publishers know this is not right and are entirely willing to pay their own way," he added.

Truman said there was some justification in subsidizing the mailing of small weekly papers in rural areas.

No Excuse
"But, he continued, 'I see no excuse whatever for subsidizing huge publishing concerns which make millions of dollars in profits every year.'"

Truman also replied to a charge which he said came from a member of congress, that the administration had not carried out any of the recommendations of the Hoover commission for reorganization of the postoffice department.

"That man was just as wrong as he could be," the president said. He asserted that virtually every one of the commission's proposals for the department already had been put into effect.

Trade Barriers Lowering on Red China, Report

WASHINGTON, (AP)—World trade with Communist China "is much better controlled than a year ago" but strategic materials are still getting through to the Reds.

A senate export controls subcommittee reporting this said some western nations "even at this late date" have not cut off the flow of war-useful goods to the Communist regime despite its aggression in Korea.

Some goods also are reaching the Reds through loopholes in and evasion of export controls and through smuggling—with some of the smuggling from U. S. controlled territory in the Far East—the committee's 66-page report issued last night said.

The report was based in part on an on-the-spot probe in the Pacific by a staff investigator.

It cited instances of motorized junks smuggling oil, heavy duty truck tires, scrap aircraft aluminum, scrap lead and other materials from the various islands.

Among the Ryukyus is, Okinawa, where the United States has large military installations.

The reports said some of the truck tires and oil drums in intercepted junks were marked "U. S. Military."

FBI Shadows Indicted Reds; Fear Escape

BALTIMORE, (AP)—A plump, gray-haired man and two school teacherish women left their apartment in a quiet suburban section of Baltimore yesterday for a leisurely Sunday stroll through nearby Druid Hill park.

As they did, three cars glided away from the curbing in front of the apartment house.

A man in one auto held a radio microphone in his hand. The cars seemed to be communicating with each other by horn signals.

A woman standing on the sidewalk remarked in a low voice: "There goes the F.B.I."

24-Hour Watch
Daily, residents of this peaceful neighborhood watch an intriguing cloak-and-dagger operation in which a 24-hour-a-day watch is kept on three Baltimoreans awaiting trial on Communist conspiracy charges.

The three are Philip Frankfeld, former head of the Communist party in Maryland; his wife, Mrs. Regina Frankfeld, who was dismissed from her post as a public school teacher here, Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, a Goucher college graduate whose husband was once Johns Hopkins university instructor.

So dogged the vigil has become that there isn't much attempt at concealment anymore.

Four top echelon Communists similar indictment in New York field and have not yet been found.

Accompanied on Walk
As the three walked toward the park for their stroll yesterday, two men who had been standing along the street closed in behind them.

A third man left a parked automobile and joined the other two men on foot. The trio walked quietly behind the Frankfelds and Mrs. Blumberg to the park.

The vigilant "shadows" kept a respectful distance, but remained in sight at all times.

Mrs. Blumberg was freed on $17,500 bail on Aug. 29, the same day Mrs. Frankfeld left jail on a $10,000 bond.

Frankfeld was released from jail Sept. 5 after his bail was reduced to $20,000.

The trial date has not been set. And meanwhile residents of the quiet neighborhood watch with interest the daily cloak-and-dagger drama.

Ground Troops To Be Trained For Atomic War

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Ground troops will be trained for atomic warfare during actual test explosions in Nevada, Rep. Durham (D-NC) says.

How many troops will be used and when the tests will occur were not revealed by Durham, vice-chairman of the senate-house committee on atomic energy, when he told of the proposed training yesterday.

The tests and training of ground forces on how to avoid radiation and other atomic explosion effects would be just like training civilians in best methods to avoid injury in case of an attack, Durham said.

Asked if he knew of any plans for underground test explosions of atomic weapons in Nevada, he said he did not, and doubted if any such tests would be made in Nevada because of dangers involved.

That Nip in The Air Means Fall's Coming

By the Associated Press
The calendar doesn't call for it, but that nip in the air is a tip fall is practically here.

The autumn season gets under way officially Sept. 21, but the weather bureau said today that it has taken a head-start over most of the country. Temperatures early today were generally below seasonal normals.

That doesn't mean you have to dig the ear-muffs out of the moth-balls, but if you're up and about during the evening hours it might be wise to have a topcoat handy. Daytime temperatures are expected close to normal over most of the nation.

The weather is generally fair except for scattered showers along the east Gulf coast and along the Atlantic coast.

Some early morning temperatures included Joliet, Ill., 42 (That's 9 degrees below normal); St. Louis 51, Philadelphia, Pa., 34, New York 65, Miami 77, Chicago 47, Los Angeles 62, Des Moines 48, Eagle, Colo., 33.

Bright Students Will Continue To Be Draft Proof

WASHINGTON, (AP)—College students who get good enough marks will continue to be deferred from the draft despite larger draft calls, a Selective Service official said last night.

Only a "substantial change" in the size of the armed forces, now set at 3,500,000, would change the present deferment schedule for college men, Daniel Omer, general counsel for Selective Service, told a radio audience.

But larger draft calls and fewer deferments for other draft eligibles, Omer said, are inevitable because "military manpower is the scarcest wartime commodity in America."

He said the rejection rate is running about 60 per cent, which he called "very high," and that only about 80,000 men a month are attaining the minimum draft age of 18½. The draft call for October is 46,000 men, highest since last spring.

Franchot Tone Loses Fight, Wins the Girl

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Franchot Tone, the suave screen lover, lost a fight over a shapely blonde but apparently has won the girl.

Actress Barbara Payton, 25, says she proposed and she said "yes."

Thus the ultimate loser of a pre-dawn movie colony brawl is muscular Tom Neal, the movie actor, who threw the punch which pulped Tone's patrician profile and hospitalized him with a brain concussion.

Neal took it hard. "I was very much in love with the girl, and still am today," he admitted. "I hope she and Tone will be very happy."

Will Recover
Tone, his doctor reports, is on the road to rapid recovery. He proposed marriage yesterday to Miss Payton during her second fire escape visit to his room.

Neal emerged from seclusion last night to supplement his previous account of the fight and to express his regrets. He still insisted that Tone threw the first punch.

"Barbara came out and asked Franchot when he was going to get rid of me," said Neal in an interview with The Times. "Then she threw her arms around him and gave him a long kiss."

"That kiss is what touched me off."

Eye Blacked
Miss Payton's announcement of Tone's proposal followed by 24 hours her scheduled trip to the altar with Neal. She also revealed that she did, indeed, suffer a black eye when she tried to halt the fight.

Across town, the apologetic athlete offered a compliment to the fallen aesthete, Tone. "I'll have to give him credit," Neal said. "He wasn't yellow. He stood up and took it."

Of his ex-fiancee, Neal said: "She couldn't make up her mind between Tone and me. First it was Tone, then it was me, then Tone, then me. Now, I guess, it's Tone."

Wage Scales Permanent Says Wilson

NEW YORK, (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson predicts that the new wage scales shaping up for American industry "will exist for a long time."

He says the wages are a natural outgrowth of an expanding economy, and he describes the nation's productive effort as "good" on the whole.

The director of defense mobilization made the statements yesterday, when he delivered two addresses keyed to today's opening of the five-day 74th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

Wilson, former head of the General Electric Company, addressed the conference of Bar association presidents and the Junior Bar conference.

Civil Air Planes Find 'Wreck' in Practice Problem

CHAMPAIGN, (AP)—A practice problem of finding a downed C-45 plane and rescuing its victims was solved yesterday by 118 private planes and 600 Illinois civil air patrolmen.

Col. Herman E. Lacey of Chicago, Illinois patrol wing commander, said patrolmen were briefed at the University of Illinois airport that a C-45 was down during a flight from Indianapolis to Quincy.

A 9,000 square mile area was systematically searched and the mockup wreckage was found 4¼ hours later near Shelbyville between Strasburg and Stewardson.

A doctor was dispatched by plane from Champaign and a mobile emergency unit sent to the scene. Less than four hours after the wreckage was sighted the victims were reported rescued and given first aid.

Cal Howe Limits
Dixon to 3 Hits
In Homecoming

ROCK FALLS—Cal Howe made his homecoming a winning one here Sunday afternoon as he pitched a three-hit 6 to 3 victory over Reynolds Wire for Howe's All-Stars.

Howe has just completed a successful season as a hurler for Grand Rapids in the Michigan State league. He had a 9-6 won-loss record.

For the day, his father, Roy (Slim) Howe, reorganized the old Howe's All-Stars to back Cal. They did so in a fine manner, gaining enough runs off Dixon pitcher John Maynard to assure the victory.

Suitably enough, however, it was strictly a day for young Howe. The lefthander struck out 14 Reynolds hitters and gave up only three hits and three walks. Maynard gave up only five hits as the Dixon pitcher.

Howe displayed a good fast ball and still had the control that makes him such a promising pitcher. Howe's clinched the game with five runs in the fifth inning.

To make the family picture complete, Ted and Kadel Howe also played for the All-Stars and the game was played on Howe's diamond.

The score by innings:

Cubs, Sox Aid
Contenders by Losing Sunday

CHICAGO (AP)—The White Sox and Cubs both stuck a finger in the pennant picture yesterday by losing.

At Boston, the Red Sox bowled over the Pale Hose 5-4 to creep within 2½ games of the American league lead being juggled by the Yankees and Indians. The Red Sox made three errors, two of them leading to White Sox runs.

Winner Leo Kiley limited the Comiskeyes to six hits, including Don Lenhardt's 14th homer of the campaign. The victim was Ken Holcombe, who previously had beaten Boston three times. He yielded seven hits, among them Buddy Rosar's No. 1 homer of the season and Clyde Vollmer's single that scored the deciding run in the eighth.

It was Chicago's third successive loss and Holcombe's 11th defeat against 10 wins.

Before 33,746 fans in Wrigley field, the Cubs bowed to the Brooklyn Dodgers 6-1 and left the Bums with a 4½ game edge in the National league van. Clem Labine, 25-year-old right-hander recalled from St. Paul late in July, hurled a six-hitter in gaining his fourth straight victory.

Rookie Bob Kelly gave the Dodgers only two hits in the first seven innings, but one was Gil Hodges' two-run homer. In all, he was touched for only five blows.

Indians Bow
To Reynolds
In New York

By JOE EICHLER
AP Sports Writer

New York's defending champion Yankees still win the big ones—and that is why they're back in first place today.

Because of their ability to rise to the occasion, because they seldom folded in the clutch, and because they were able to beat the team in front of them, the Yankees won the flag in 1949 and '50.

History simply repeated itself yesterday when the Bronx Bombers crushed Cleveland, 5-1, and replaced the Indians at the top of the American league.

Red Sox Stay Close

At the same time, Boston's third-place Red Sox remained right in the thick of things by beating the Chicago White Sox, 5-4, and climbing to within 2½ games of the top.

The Yankee victory came on the anniversary of their taking the league lead a year ago. Only on Sept. 16, 1950, it was the Tigers they beat to grab a lead they never lost.

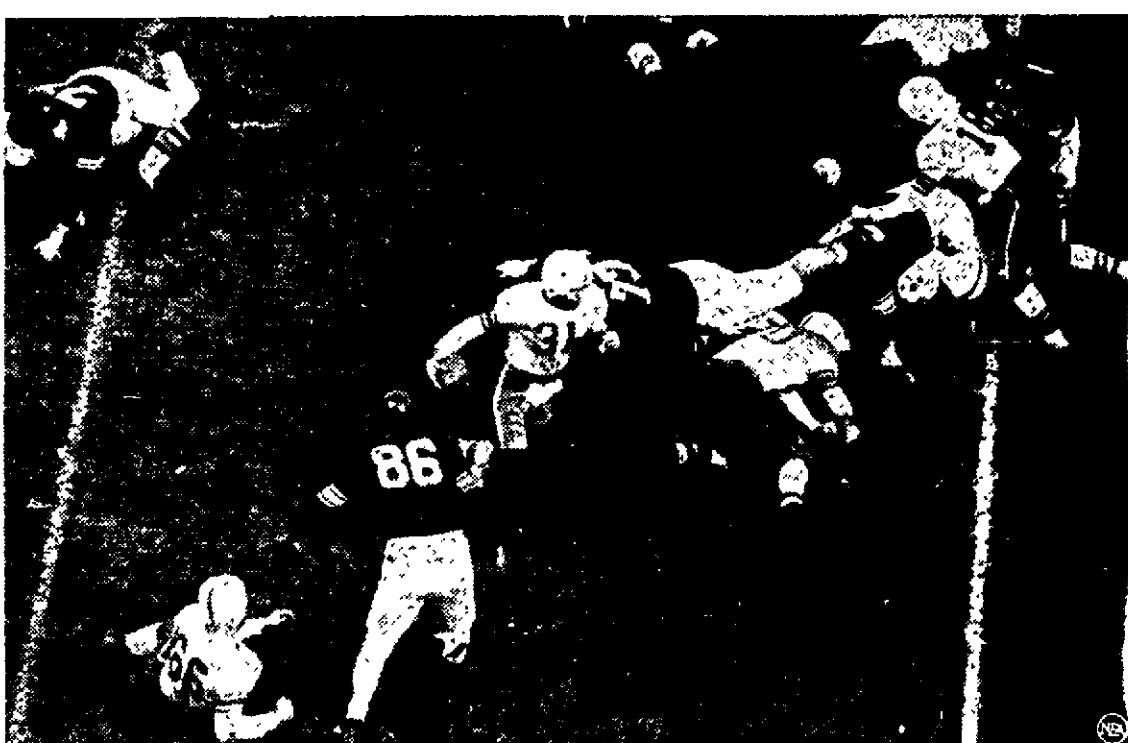

New York's first-place hold is a precarious three percentage points and it can be expunged today if Ed Lopat loses to Cleveland's Bob Lemon in the last meeting between the two clubs.

Up to now, however, the Indians have shown a pathetic ineptness at the Yankee Stadium. Of 10 games on the Yankees

BUCKEYE BEAUTIES—Ohio State's Vic Janowicz (31) gets off on one of his frequent long runs of last season. With Janowicz and 24 other lettermen returning, experienced personnel is plentiful in Columbus. The Buckeyes have the inside track on the Big 10 title. (NEA)

Janowicz May Lead Ohio State To Top of Big Ten Grid Heap

(This is one of a series of football prospects at Western Conference Universities)
By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Pegged for third place in the national grid picture by Associated Press pollsters, Ohio State's question-mark Bucks may turn out to be just that good.

The question mark angle pops up because the Columbus crew has a new coach in Wayne Woodrow (Woody) Hayes, making his big time debut; a new offensive system as the "T" formation displaces the single wing and buck lateral; three new assistant coaches, two of whom have never been outside the high school field, and a huge void left by 14 departing lettermen.

On the optimistic side is the fact that Hayes had phenomenal success the last four years at Denison and Miami universities; his assistants were scholastic standouts, and he has 25 lettermen back from a team which won six and lost three a year ago.

Two of the losses were among the most woe in Ohio history, Southern Methodist taking the opener 32-7 by coming from behind to win the game in the closing minutes, and Michigan winning the finale 9-3 on two blocked punts in a near-zero blitz.

Janowicz Returns
All-American back Vic Janowicz is the No. 1 man of the returning lettermen, some of whom will have to step aside for a sterling array of freshmen gleaned from Ohio's 575-team high school competition. Many of the frosh—a dozen of whom landed high on the Associated Press all-Ohio last fall—will see varsity action.

Hayes is proud of his talent and admits candidly that "we're going to have a pretty good team."

Roettger Rites Set for Today

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Funeral services for 49-year-old Wallace Roettger, University of Illinois baseball coach who ended his life Friday, were scheduled today (at noon CDT) at the Smith Memorial music hall.

Burial will be in the Riverview cemetery in Streator, Ill.

Lou Boudreau, Roettger's greatest baseball protegee, will be unable to attend the funeral. He wired this tribute from Boston: "Wallie was my source of greatest encouragement and inspiration."

Doug Mills, Illinois athletic director, said: "Wallie Roettger's achievements stand where my words fall."

Reynolds Stops Tribe

Alte Reynolds, whom the Indians traded to the Yankees in the winter of '46, wielded the tomahawk yesterday. He set Tribe back on five hits and drove in the winning run with a second-inning single.

It was in the Yankee half of the fifth, however, that this crucial contest reached its most dramatic point, as far as the capacity crowd of 68,760 was concerned.

The Yankees, leading 3-1, had a runner on third with two away.

Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to the lefthanded Yogi Berra so the righthanded Bob Feller could pitch to Joe DiMaggio. It was the third time in DiMaggio's illustrious career—all coming this season—that a batter was passed to get at Joe. It was the first time at the Stadium.

DIMag Raps Triple

The Yankee Clipper knocked the strategy into a cocked hat and slammed Feller out of the box with a two-triple that rolled to the left-center field fence 457 feet away.

PREP ROUNDUP

Few Top Teams Spilled in High School Grid Openers

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A dozen teams led by Peoria Manual, Libertyville, Moline, Evanston and Springfield earned recognition today for outstanding showings in downstate prep football openers.

One of the most convincing triumphs was turned in by Peoria Manual's powerful Rams, who ran their unbeaten string through 26 games by downing East Peoria, 33-0.

Libertyville accomplished something that no team has done since 1948 when it spilled Barrington, 13-7. The Barrington club had gone 24 games without a loss, its last defeat coming at the hands of Arlington Heights in the 1948 season opener.

Evanston Strong
Evanston's strong entry, rated as a top threat for the championship of the touch Suburban league, lived up to its advance billing with an easy 33-0 conquest of Bloom, a South Suburban league member.

Springfield of the Big Twelve and East St. Louis of the Southwestern staged their annual opener, with the Capital city boys racking up a 28-20 victory. Half-time ceremonies honored William Roellig, who has been coaching

HUGHES VIEWS OF SPORTS

With the season's opener against Marmion written off as a page of successful football history, Coach Sam Owens' Dukes will start concentrating on a pair of neighborhood rivals, Amboy and Sterling, this week.

AMBOY'S CLIPPERS will present the most immediate hurdle. Coach Paul Milosevich and his boys, 27 to 7 losers at Mendota Friday, will be hoping to pull a surprise against the Dukes in the Amboy home opener Friday night.

Perhaps the biggest job that faces Owens this week is that of keeping the interest of his boys centered on Amboy and not on Sterling, the following week's opponent.

AFTER THAT IMPRESSIVE show of talent in the second half against Marmion there has been a noticeable "This is the year we beat Sterling" attitude growing in Dixon. True, most of those who dare even to suspect such a thing usually do so with reservations. Dixon has defeated Sterling so seldom in recent years that it is folly to show any confidence that it will suddenly happen in 1951. It is something to dream about, but after all, just a little too good to be possible, these people say.

But as we said earlier, Amboy remains the target for this week. Dixon should enter the contest in prime condition, both physically and mentally. Considering the violence of the Marmion game, Dixon emerged in surprisingly sound shape as far as injuries are concerned. Only Benny Roe gave the coaches any cause for alarm, and his twisted knee is expected to be sound this week.

OWENS PROBABLY is more concerned about a couple of weaknesses in his club that still stand out amidst the Dixon heroes in the Marmion game. The fact remains that Dixon is woefully undermanned in the kicking department—both punting and place-kicking—and its passing game still must be proven.

Good punters aren't developed overnight, so this problem may remain. Roe's recovery would be the ideal solution to the place-kicking headache. And the passing problem can stay in the background as long as the Dukes' running game stays as impressive as it was against Marmion.

THESE ARE OWENS' current tactical worries. Still, his main job this week may be that of impressing this one idea on his Dukes: "We play Amboy this Friday night; let's forget about Sterling until next week."

THE UNIVERSITY of Illinois lost a wonderful coach and a gentleman Friday when Wally Roettger took his own life. The shock and surprise of the news out of Champaign was intensified for all who knew and respected Roettger.

FRIDAY'S VICTORY for Dixon made the post-game open house the Clem Lindells held for the high school faculty at their new home an especially gay one. The Lindells were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Art Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Winger in presenting the get-together.

Although Princeton managed a 14 to 0 victory over Walnut Friday night, there is a chance the score will be thrown out of the books along with at least part of the rest of Princeton's schedule. The Princeton team is under investigation by the Illinois High School association for alleged using of alumni players to scrimmage against in practice—something the IHSA frowns upon violently.

Betsy Rawls Cops Women's Golf Test

ATLANTA, (AP)—Beaming Betsy Rawls, the Texas scholar, counted her first season as a professional golfer a financial as well as an artistic success today after winning the National Women's open from the classic field in the tournament history.

The 23-year-old Phi Beta Kappa lass from Austin picked up $1,500 because her 72-hole total of 293 yesterday outstripped such high rated stars as Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs, Patty Berg and the beautiful Bauer sisters.

The Dukes' victory over Marmion last Friday was a fine reward for the hard work the boys have been putting in since the start of the practice season. When a team can come back as the Dukes did in the second half, it indicates that the boys as a whole are in pretty good shape. Many a football game is won in the fourth quarter by a team which is in better shape than its opponent. Many a MICHAELS STERN SUIT sale is a "repeat" sale, because MICHAELS STERN buyers are aware of the "fourth quarter" qualities of these suits—they outweigh their rivals in price, styling, tailoring and in length of service.

The Frosh-Soph team gave the varsity something to shoot at when they won their game 13 to 0. It's good to know that athletics seem to be on the upswing at Dixon High.

I received a note from Floyd Acker last week. His many Dixon friends will be glad to learn that Floyd is playing second team quarterback on offense at Drake which is mighty fine for a freshman. Floyd is rooming with Roger Puterbaugh whom most of you will remember playing for Sterling two years ago. Puterbaugh is playing end at Drake and, like Floyd, is on the second string offensive line. Drake defeated Abilene Christian of Texas Friday, so Floyd had a taste of victory in his first intercollegiate football game.

Sterling Township capitalized on three breaks in beating Community High Friday night. Community fumbled Township's first two punts and both errors resulted in 40 to 15 yard gains. Then, in the second half, Community made a nice runback of a punt only to have the play nullified and a 15-yard penalty assessed because of a player's running into the kicker. Township had only one bad break, Cameron ran 88 yards for a touchdown only to have a teammate mind you, 15 yards behind the ball carrier) clip a Community player. After the penalty assessment the ball was 73 yards away from a touchdown. Despite the 19-point difference in score, Community and Township seemed pretty evenly matched in personnel.

Reckless Teens Ride Traffic Patrol To Learn Wreck-less Driving Habits

THE RIDE WITH A LESSON: Phoenix teen-agers one of them (third from right) gets a graphic highway patrol as part of their punishment. Hers nabbed for breaking traffic laws ride with the lesson in the results of reckless driving as he watches an accident victim being pulled from a wreck.

By HOWARD DeWALD

NEA Special Correspondent
PHOENIX, Ariz. — (NEA) —

Night rides with highway patrolmen are taking the wreck out of reckless youths in the Phoenix area.

Boys and girls between 16 and 18 years old who have been arrested for traffic law violations in Maricopa County must attend a 10-hour juvenile traffic violators' school. Then they ride the night patrol to learn first-hand how traffic accidents occur and how they could have been avoided by respect for the law.

Judge Charles C. Bernstein inaugurated the school a year ago to do something about "the most reckless group" of drivers. He instructed police to get tough with juveniles and arrest them for the slightest violation.

Appearing before the judge, the juvenile's license is suspended until he successfully completes the 24-week course.

The first year a thousand youths completed the school. Only 18 graduates were arrested as repeaters for traffic law violations. Their licenses were suspended from 30 to 90 days.

Before the school was established, the judge said, there were so many repeaters among juvenile violators that they were referred to adult courts for prosecution.

The first thing juveniles get when they enter the school is a test to determine their attitudes toward other drivers and traffic laws. Then follows an examination of how much they know about the mechanical operation of a vehicle and an actual driving test in city traffic.

A psycho-physical test is given and a movie which characterizes bad youthful driving habits shown.

Not only does the school change many bad driving habits the youths have developed, but it also eliminates hostile attitudes toward laws and police, an attitude that Judge Bernstein says is the heart of all juvenile delinquency.

A teen-ager's dislike for lawmen doesn't last long when he sits beside a patrolman for a night ride.

As they cruise the highways, minor traffic law violations are pointed out and the more flagrant violators are stopped and issued citations by the patrolmen. The young riders are told why the ticket was written and how the seemingly insignificant violation endangered the lives of many.

"I never realized how many people break the law until I saw it out on the highway," a 17-year-old boy said after his ride.

The officers stop occasionally while on patrol to buy their young riders a malted milk, talk about what they have seen.

A 16-year-old relative of one of Arizona's high public officials and his girl were picked up one night for driving their cars side by side at 65 miles an hour along a main thoroughfare while they talked to each other.

Both were "sentenced" to attend the juvenile drivers school.

Summer Jobs Aid Those on Relief Rolls

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—Summer jobs found by the Illinois Public Aid Commission for teen-agers of families getting public help has reduced or stopped their dependence on the state.

Results of the experimental program were disclosed yesterday by Carl K. Schmidt Jr., IPAC executive secretary.

It involved 128 girls and boys in 19 Northern Illinois counties who were aided in getting work as movie ushers, nurses' aids, delivery messengers, gasoline station attendants and newspaper route carriers.

Their earnings permitted material reductions in awards to 39 families, temporary suspensions of grants to another 34, and elimination of awards to 15 families. Aid grants are based on need.

Counties affected by the experiment were: Grundy, Kankakee, Kendall, LaSalle, Will, Bureau, DuPage, Kane, Lee, Jo Daviess, Lake, McHenry, Stephenson, Winnebago, Carroll, Henry, Ogle, Rock Island and Whiteside.

Union Will Ask Free Carfare for Pittsburgh Toilers

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Here's a union that's going to ask the employer to provide workers with free carfare.

Charles C. Levy, international vice president of the AFL-Building Service Employees union, says the union's 2,000 Pittsburgh members are entitled to trolley or bus fare, while going to and from work, because they'll get only a small pay boost under the Wage Stabilization Board formula. Wage rates were not disclosed.

The English shilling was first minted in 1504.

SCHOOL FOR SAFETY: A teen-age traffic violator rides with Capt. George Stinson of Arizona's highway patrol for a night course in safe driving that makes good drivers out of bad ones.

The boy was riding with a patrolman as the final part of his training, along the same thoroughfare, when the officer picked up a man for speeding.

"The guy's crazy to take a chance like that through here," the boy said.

His attitude had changed. A month before, he had taken a more dangerous chance.

In one night patrol, for example, a juvenile learned first-hand that strict observance of stop signs eliminates many accidents, that driving while drowsy is inviting a ditch full of overturned automobiles, and that drunk and reckless driving is a rush order for an ambulance and the coroner.

The boy said: "That ride helped me to realize how dangerous a car can be when taken lightly. I think all kids should have to ride with a patrolman once."

The American Bar Association has recognized the school as the only one of its kind conducted by a juvenile court in the country.

Among the most enthusiastic supporters of the school are Phoenix traffic officers and state highway patrolmen.

Capt. George Stinson of the Arizona Highway Patrol says: "This school is going to make our lives easier for years to come."

The teacher said the board released him last April because he would not send his seven-year-old son, Michael, to a public school, and instead chose a parochial school.

The school board denied this. It said it acted under a clause in Shorb's contract allowing his discontinuance at the end of any school year.

Shorb's lawyer, Richard Jordan, said he will let the matter drop. Jordan had planned to get district

Pilot Crash-Lands Airliner as Engine Fails, Saves Lives of 53

CHICAGO, (AP)—A Florida-bound plane crashed yesterday and the pilot's expert handling of the crippled ship was credited with saving the lives of 53 persons aboard.

Pilot-Capt. B. J. Mountain of Miami, Fla., was lauded for making an "excellent" belly-landing of the converted twin-engine army C-46 in a field near Midway airport. Mountain brought the ship down shortly after getting airborne when the left engine failed.

The plane was badly damaged and both engines were torn away in the wheels-up landing but none of those aboard was seriously injured.

Most of the 50 injured suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Thirty-seven passengers plus the crew of four were treated at two hospitals and others were examined by doctors at the scene. Fourteen persons were hospitalized but their injuries were described as not serious. A four-month-old child was among the injured.

Officials said mountain maneuvered his troubled craft to a clear area—a prairie about three miles west of the airport on the city's western extreme—and made "an excellent belly-landing."

Engine Fails
Will Sievert, acting chief of the Civil Aeronautics board, Region C, said that about three minutes after the takeoff Mountain radioed that his port engine had failed and that he was coming back for an emergency landing.

The plane—lumbering along on a single engine at about 200 to 300 feet altitude—apparently was too low for Mountain to make a 180-degree turn back to the field. He decided then, Sievert said, to risk a landing in the clear area. Bringing the ship to the prairie, Mountain and the co-pilot, Robert Tracy, 33, of Miami, cut the ignition the moment the plane touched the ground to avoid the hazard of a fire. The plane pancaked to the ground and slid to a halt, right side up.

All aboard fled the downship through the regular portside door. Sievert praised Mountain's decision not to try to return to the airport and landing the craft in a manner that avoided loss of life.

The plane, owned by the Peninsular Air Transport company of Miami, was leased to the Safe-way Skycoach Airline company of Chicago. It was starting a chartered trip to Miami with stops at Cincinnati and St. Petersburg, Fla.

200 Treated After Eating Salad at Newspaper Picnic

YAKIMA, Wash., (AP)—Two hundred persons were treated at hospitals for food infection yesterday after a picnic for employees of Yakima's two daily newspapers.

Many more of the 350 attending the picnic received treatment at home.

Many of the picnicers became violently ill and 105 were to remain in hospitals overnight.

Dr. Stanley Benner, city health officer, said potato salad was believed the cause of the food poisoning.

Korea Not in Official War; Poses Puzzle

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Because Korea isn't an official war, the men who die there get no acknowledgment on their headstones in the nation's military cemeteries.

The government markers for the dead of the two previous conflicts carry notation of their service, "World War I" or "World War II." But there is no such inscription for those of the 13,822 Korean dead whose bodies are now coming to permanent military cemeteries for burial.

The custom seems to arise from two things: The fact that congress has never declared the Korea fighting a war; inflexible military regulations predicted on the law.

The "National Cemetery Regulations" of the military department say that the inscription on government headstones may contain the name, date of birth and death, an abbreviation of military awards held, a religious emblem and "the war in which service was rendered."

That, explain officials, is the trouble—that word "war." They can't decide if it is a war if congress or the president hasn't stamped it with such official designation.

The regulations do not, of course, apply to the graves of servicemen buried in other than LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Marvin Colyer's popcorn-eating friends are going to miss him. And judging from the popcorn he gave away, there are quite a few of them.

Colyer, 44-year-old lobby salesman for the Ritz theatre, was arrested yesterday and charged with converting another's property to his own use.

He said he gave popcorn to his friends because he "just wanted to be good to them."

It's uncertain how many 10-cent bags he gave away in two years, but City Detective Earl Knies said a guess would be 15,000 to 40,000.

Knies said Colyer admitted ordering that many bags to cover up his generosity. He also bought some extra popping corn when supplies ran low.

His employer, Allen Bradley, became suspicious when he noticed a difference in the regular type of bags recently.

But Bradley isn't real angry. He put up Colyer's $300 bond and solved the popcorn situation by making Colyer the theater's booking agent.

And Colyer says he wants to pay Bradley for the popcorn he gave away.

King George Will Undergo Medical Tests

LONDON, (AP)—King George is ducking decorators at Buckingham palace.

He left the family at their Scottish vacation home in Balmoral castle and flew back here for a week of intensive medical tests and possible operation of an inflamed lung.

His unexpected early return caught the palace household staff in the middle of a thorough cleaning and redecorating job. Court circles said the king may move over to Windsor castle later in the week just to keep out of the way.

OLD-TIMERS could read the message

Smoke curling over the horizon once spelled a message every man could read.

Across prairie, delta and bayou the smoke of railway construction-trains curled into words of hope.

For the farmer the smoke read, "Here comes a way to market for your corn, cotton, lumber, livestock." To the storekeeper it said, "Here come new ginghams, pots and pans, cast iron stoves and plows."

To all people, the smoke said, "Here is economical freight service."

When the little West Feliciana Railroad, now a part of the Illinois Central, issued the first freight tariff in America in 1836, folks in Louisiana were astounded. For the West Feliciana charged as little as 3/4¢ per mile for hauling 100 pounds of freight.

Those old-timers would have been more surprised at today's even lower freight rates. With prices as they are in these times, the Illinois Central last year averaged just one-thirteenth of the original West Feliciana rate.

For 100 years the Illinois Central has provided the people of Mid-America with economical transportation. We are determined to continue that record into our second century.
